DEANNA PIZZITELLI

(b. 1987, Toronto, Canada)

Deanna Pizzitelli is a Canadian photo-based artist and educator. She completed her BFA in Photography at Ryerson University, and her MFA at the University of Arizona. Interested in the emotional landscape, Pizzitelli uses analogue processes to explore themes of fantasy, desire, longing, and loss. Her practice is motivated by the act of travel, the visual residue of her many intersections with landscape, wildlife, and culture. She has attended residencies in Canada, Iceland, and Portugal.

Pizzitelli is a recipient of the 2018 Scotiabank New Generation Photography Award. This culminated in exhibitions at the Canadian Photography Institute of the National Gallery of Canada in Ottawa, and at the OCAD University Onsite Gallery in Toronto, a Featured Exhibition of the Scotiabank CONTACT Photography Festival. In 2019, she was honoured to sit as a jury member for the same award.

Deanna is represented by Stephen Bulger Gallery in Toronto. She also works collaboratively with artist Jakub Jančo and currently resides in Bratislava, Slovakia.
